For always being involved in class discussions and for respectfully expressing his opinions.

Well done 😊

Dear Parents,

What a brilliant festive week we have had this week! The children came into school in their colourful and vibrant Christmas jumpers and we enjoyed a meal together to kick off the festive season. It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas at All Saints Marsh and the children were excited to design their Christmas crowns and headbands that they wore during their meal.

Science this week has been a practical lesson that involved creating circuits and purposefully testing different components, such as bulbs, motors, switches and batteries, to check and evaluate their effectiveness. We also practised using more than one bulb and carefully connecting the wires to make that there were no gaps in the circuits in order for them to work. We will continue to explore this topic for one more week before moving on to a new one next term.

We are excited to reveal our five favourite books as a class that we will keep for a term and will be going back to them often to familiarise ourselves with the stories, styles and authorial choices. Here are our current favourite five books, which we will explore now and into the spring term: The magic box by Kit Wright; Street Child by Berlie Doherty; The Tempest by William Shakespeare; The boy the mole the fox and the horse by Charlie Mackesy and Can I build a better me by Shinsuke Yoshitake.

Kind regards
Mrs Babbage

A note from Mrs Secker:

Well what a busy, Christmas filled week we have had at school! Nativity filming, biscuit making, tree decoration designing, carol singing, Christmas dinner eating and all whilst working super hard on our learning!!

Thank you for your generous contributions to activities organised by our amazing PTFA as well as supporting the chosen charities of our Year 6 Civic Award pupils. These young people are truly helping us to live out our value of compassion and helping our younger pupils to see courageous advocacy in action.

Some you may have heard that a very special member of staff will be hanging up her pencil case and retiring at the end of term. Mrs Elliot has certainly earned her rest after years of service to ASM and always putting the children at the heart of all she does. Please join us (virtually) next Friday to say a big goodbye to her. (Link will sent next week)

One more week of fun and singing to go!!
